The project was developed in the winter semester 2020/21 as part of the international workshop „Together - Communication and Design for Intercultural Understanding“. The workshop was organized in cooperation with students from the University of Pecs under the direction of Prof. Michaela Köhler and Dr. Ádám Guld Ph.D.

Funded by the Ministry of Science, Research and the Arts
Baden-Württemberg

Preface:

In conjunction with the Together project, students from Pecs and Stuttgart, recorded their quarantine experiences using a personal diary. The theme included „New normal with Covid 19“.

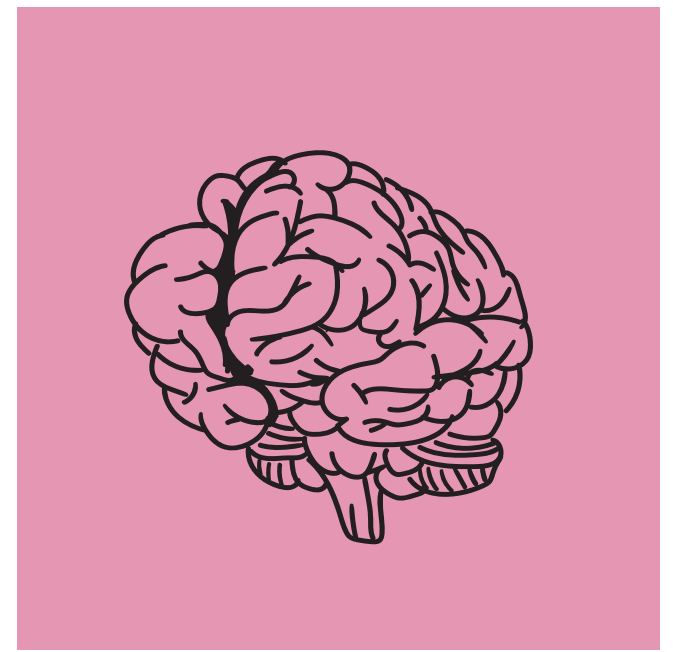

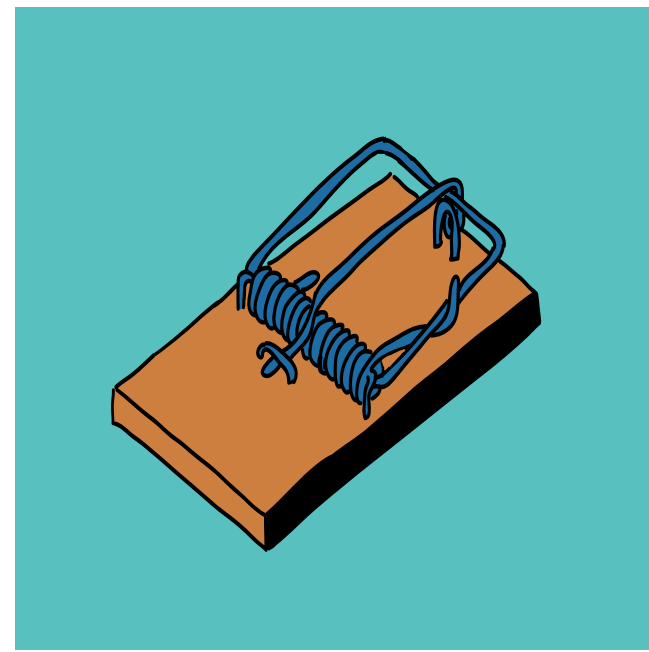

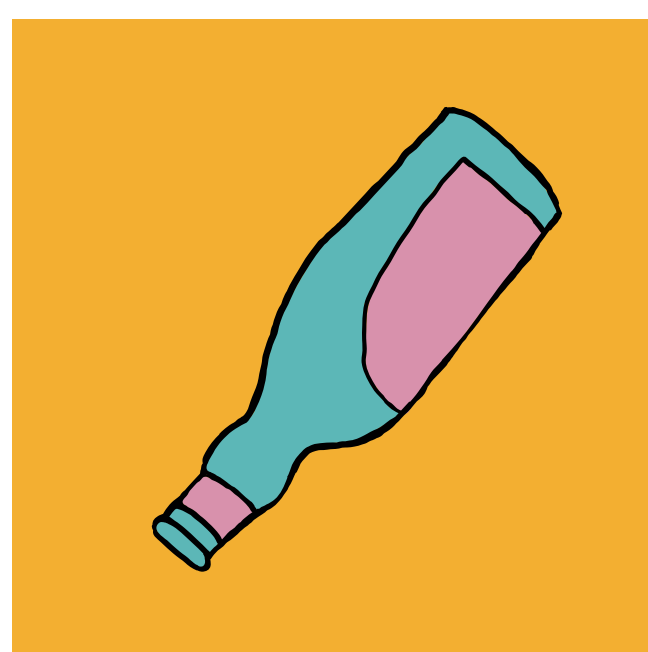

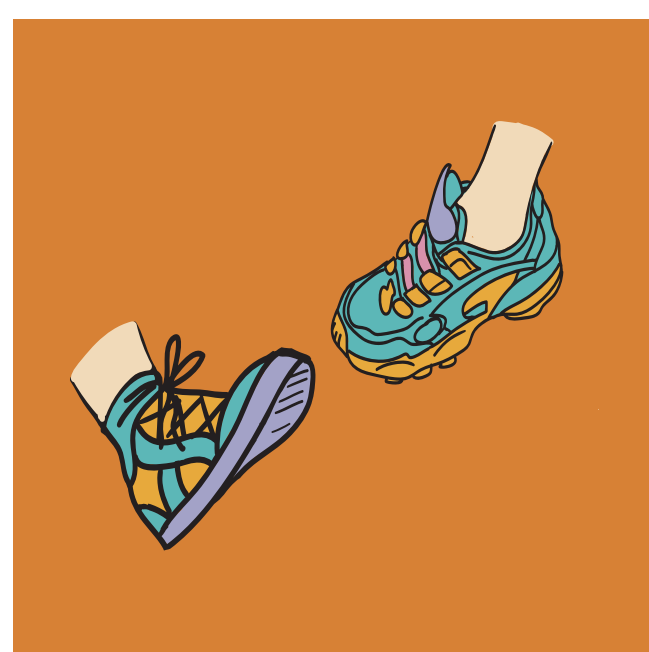

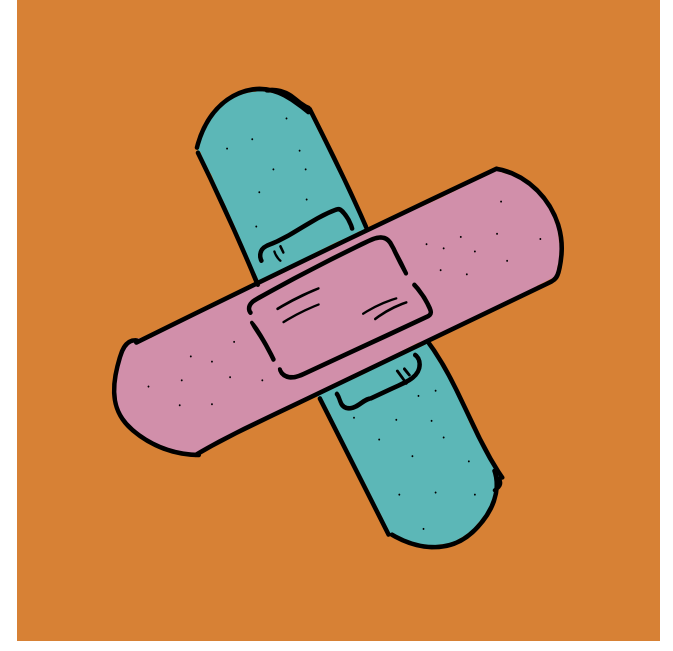

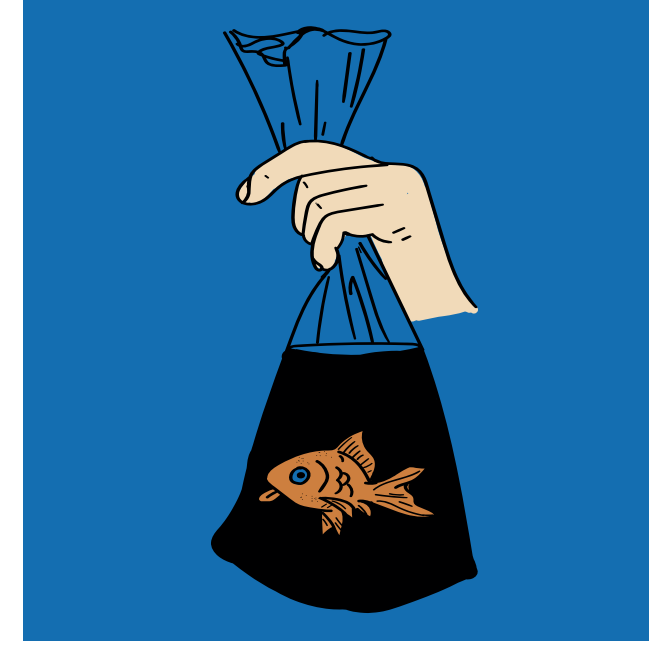

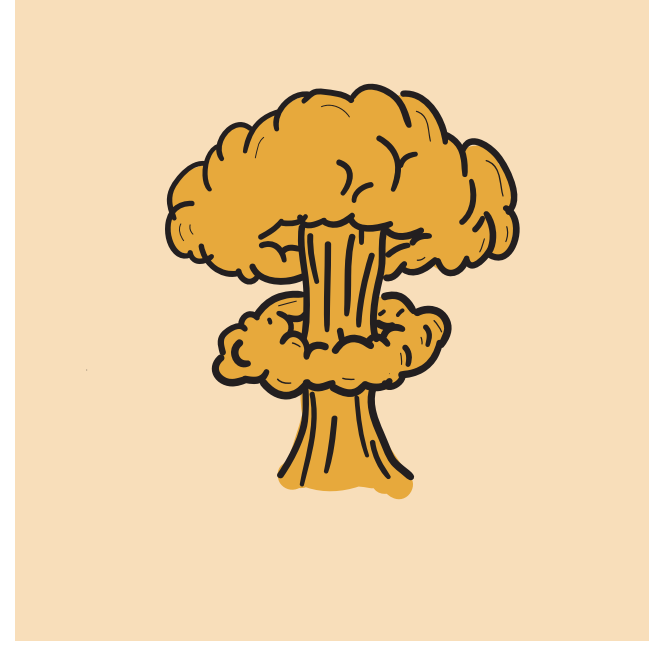

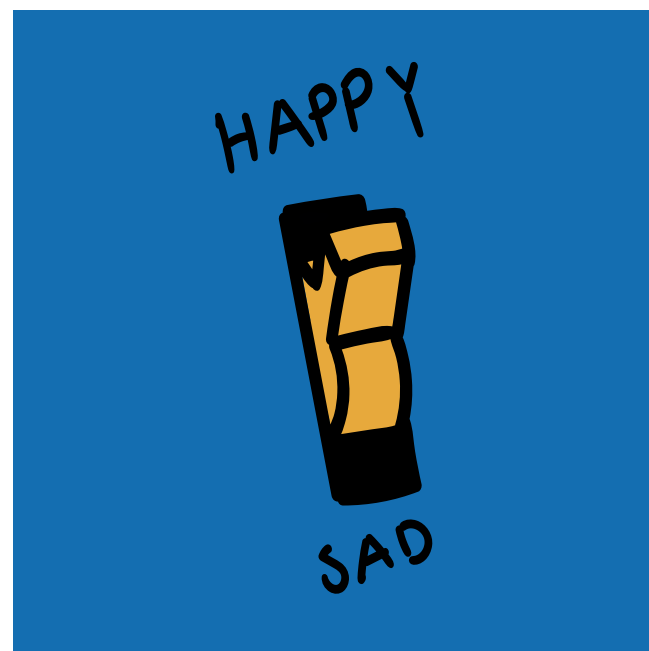

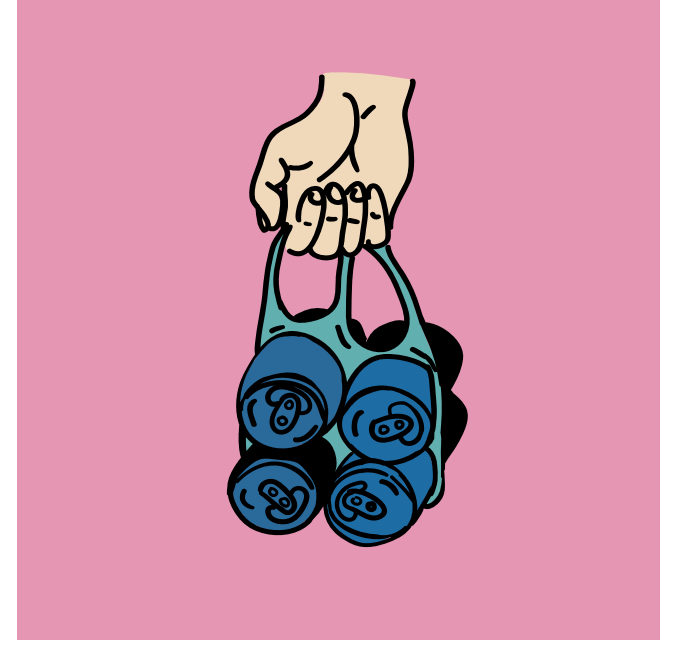

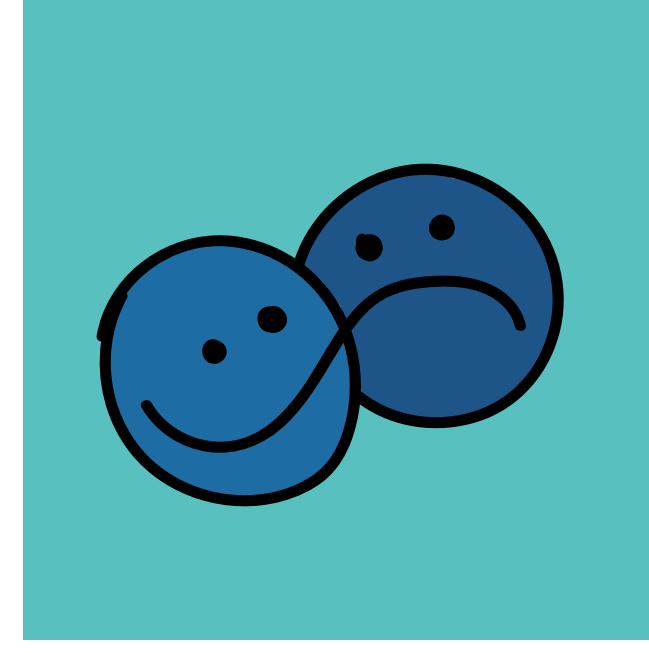

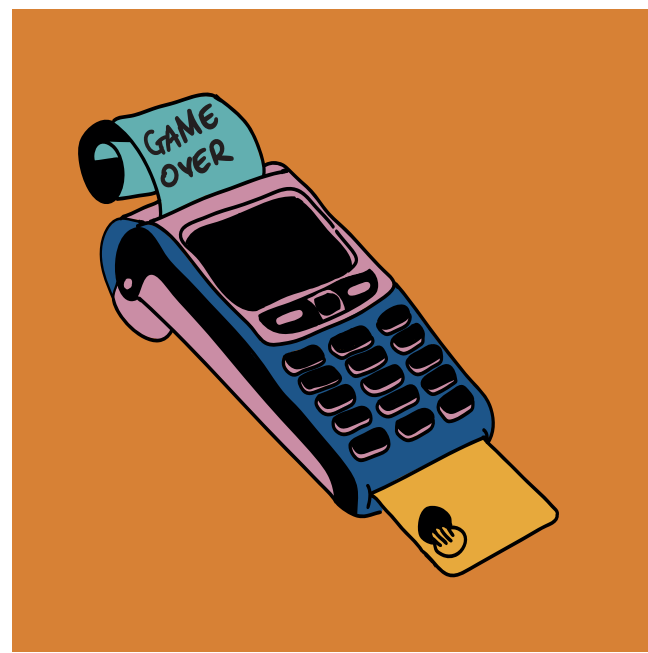

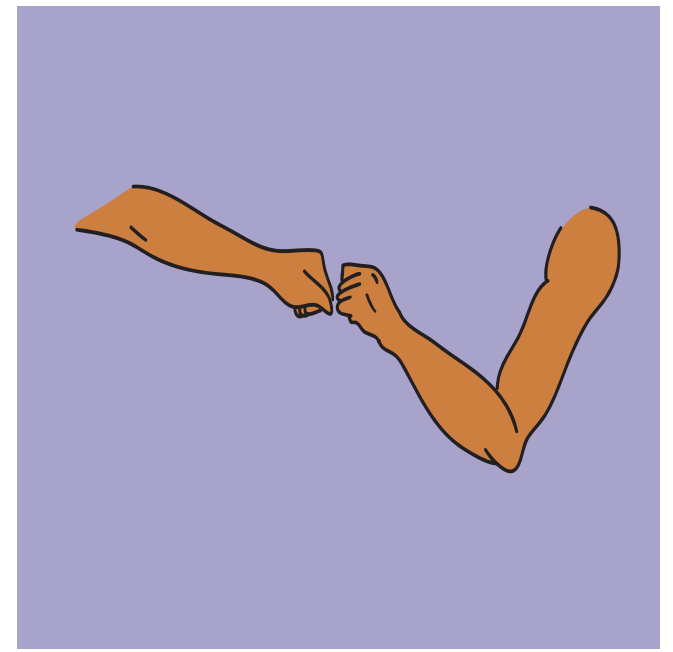

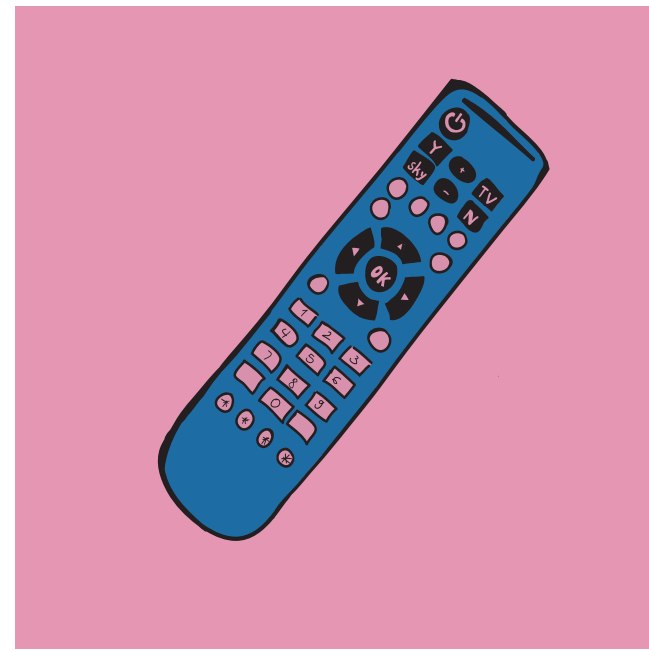

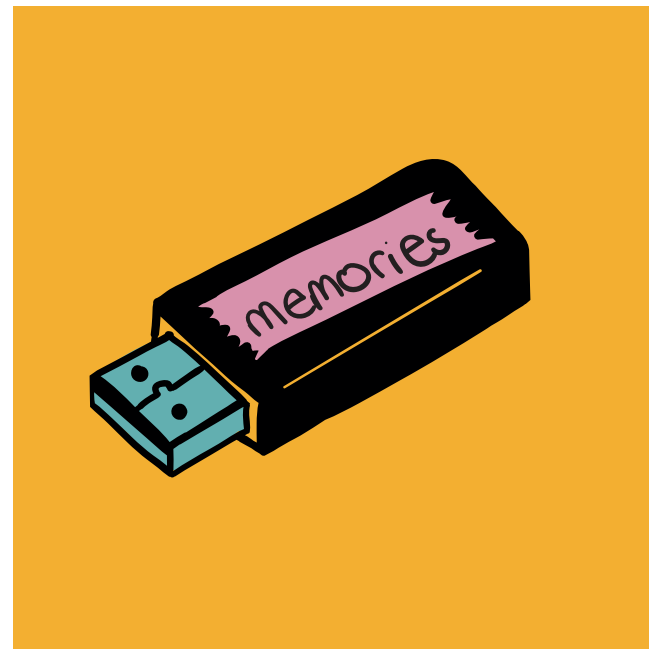

In my work „LOCKDOWN COVID 9 TEEN“ I highlight the life with Covid the thoughts and feelings that arose in the students. The illustrations/quots show the variety of thoughts. The students had during this phase.

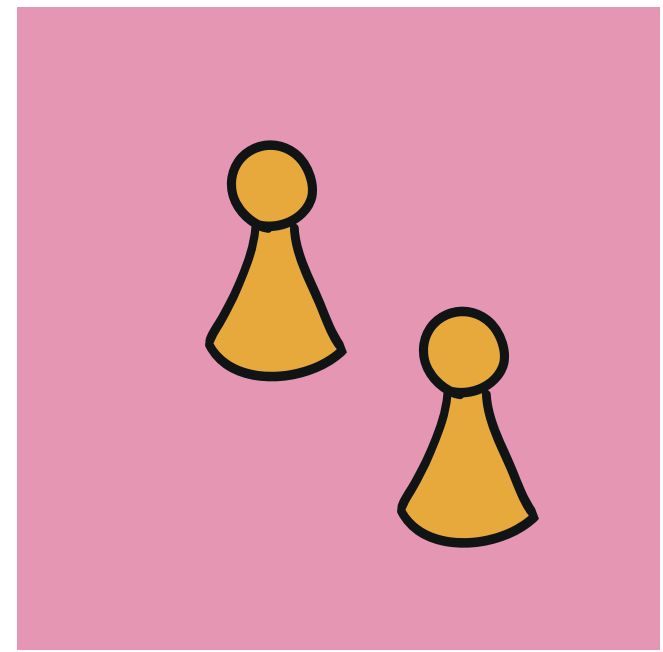

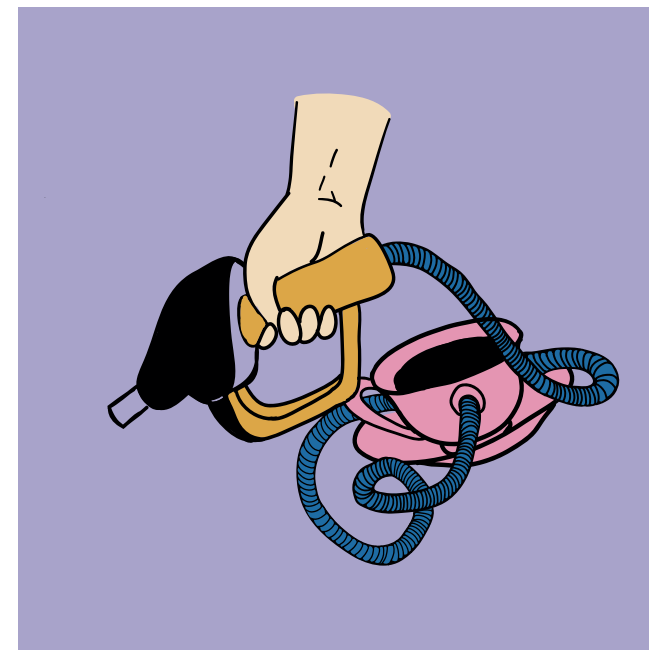

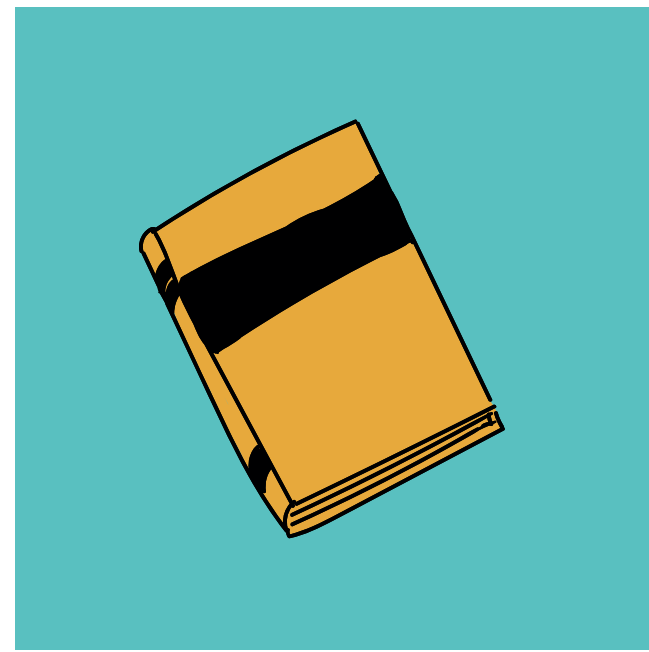

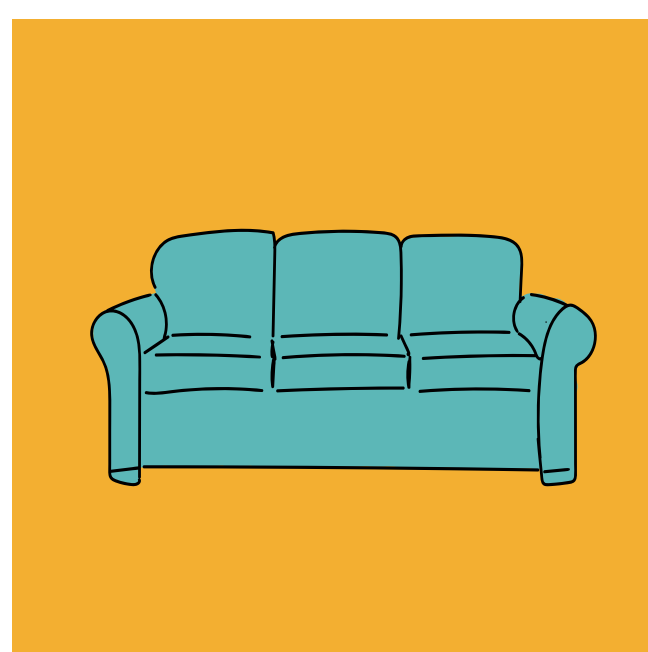

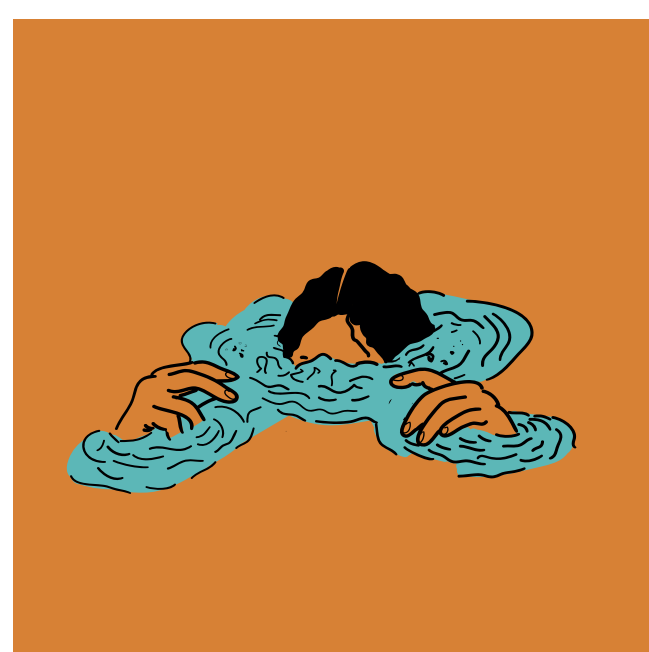

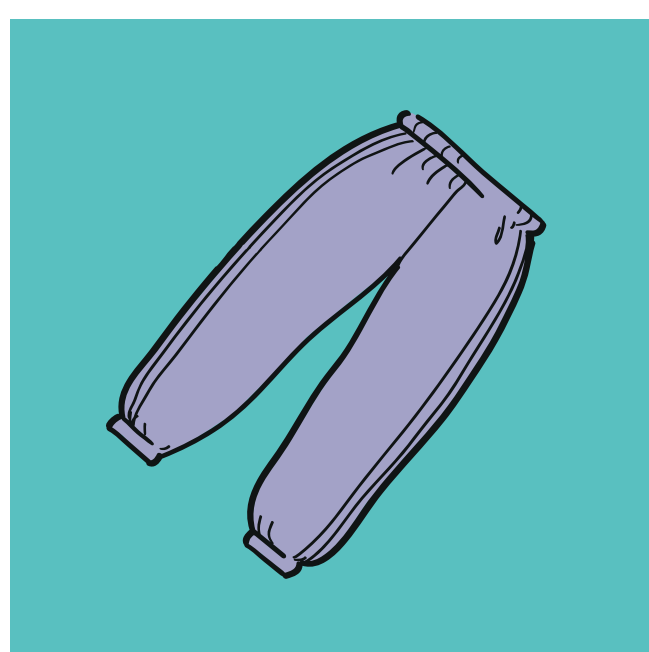

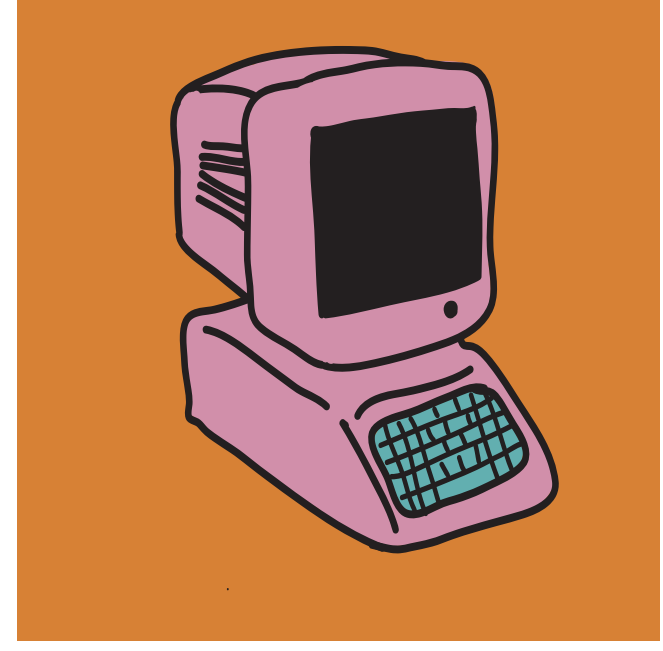

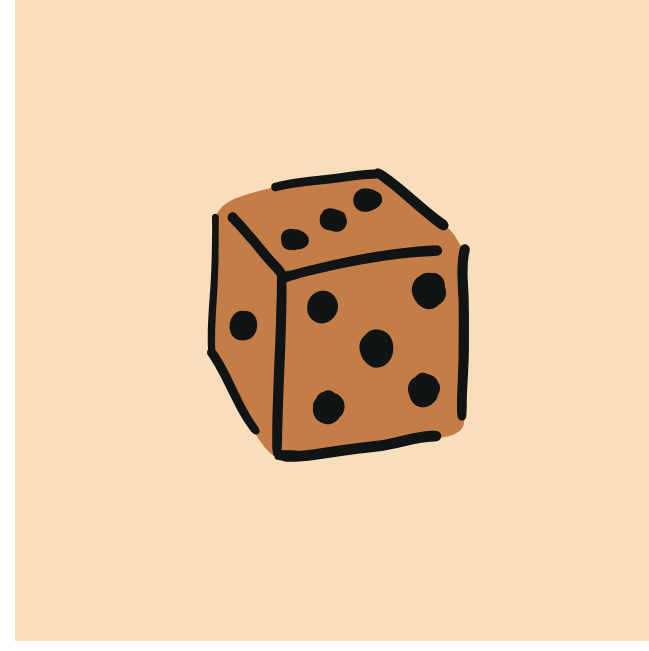

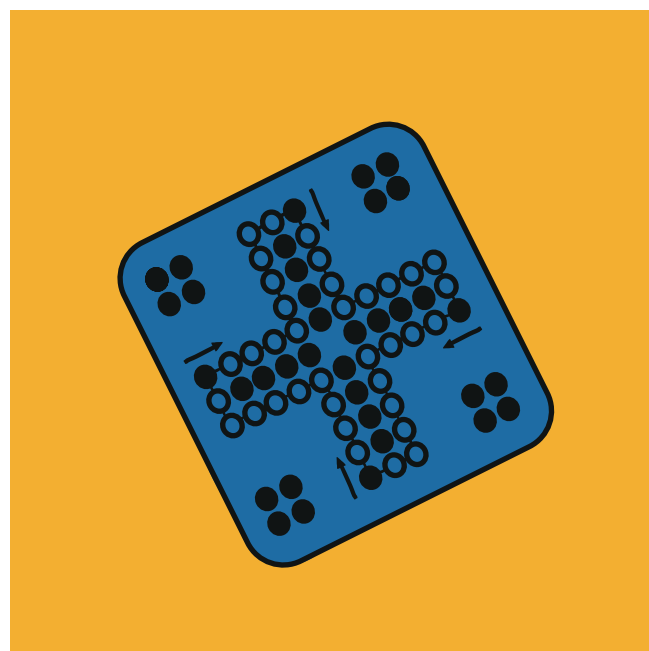

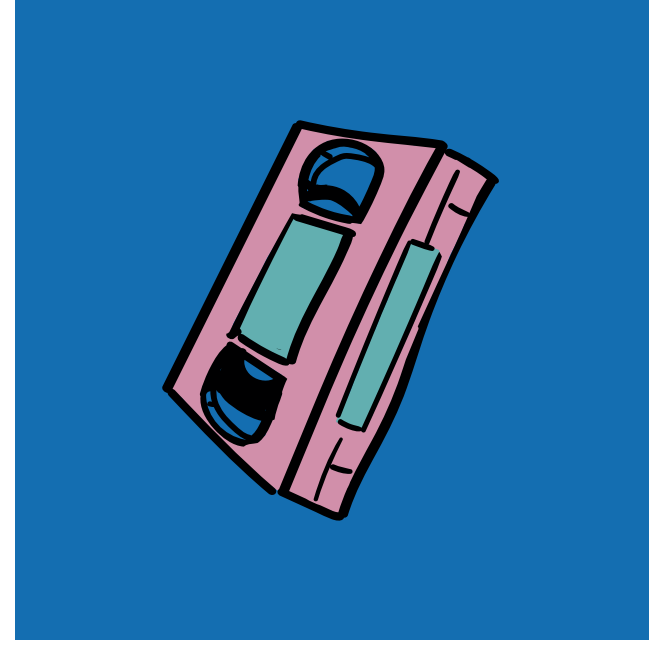

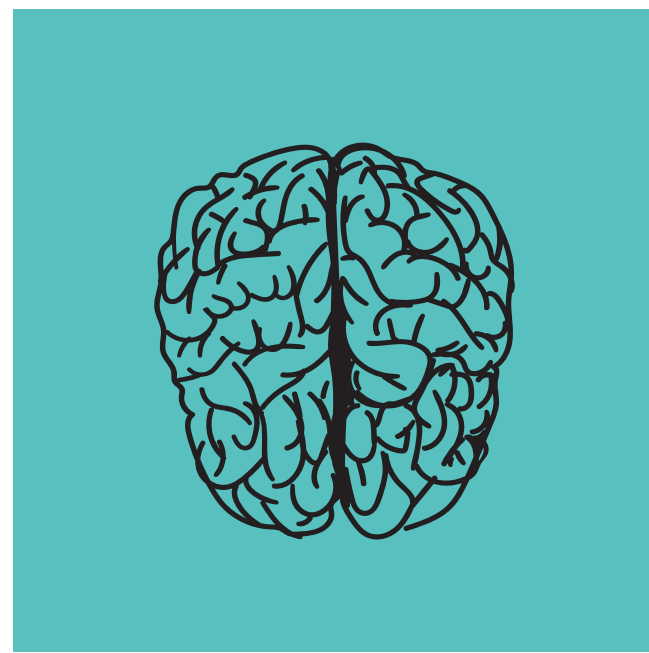

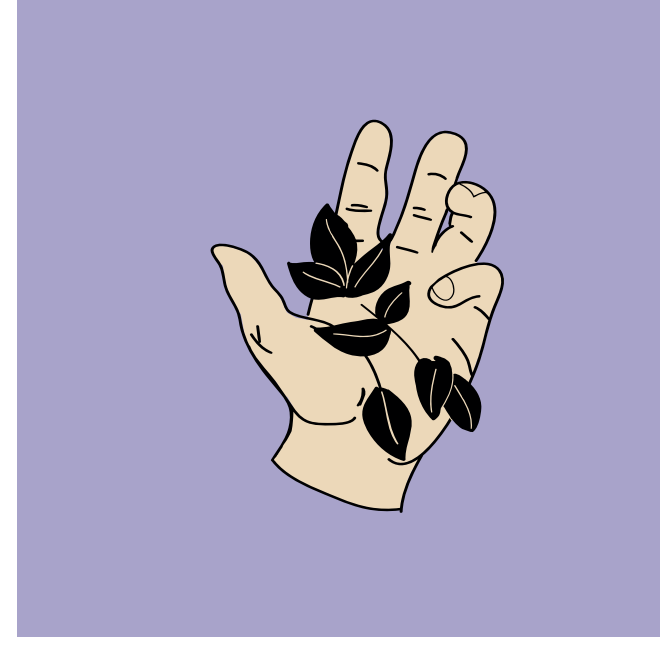

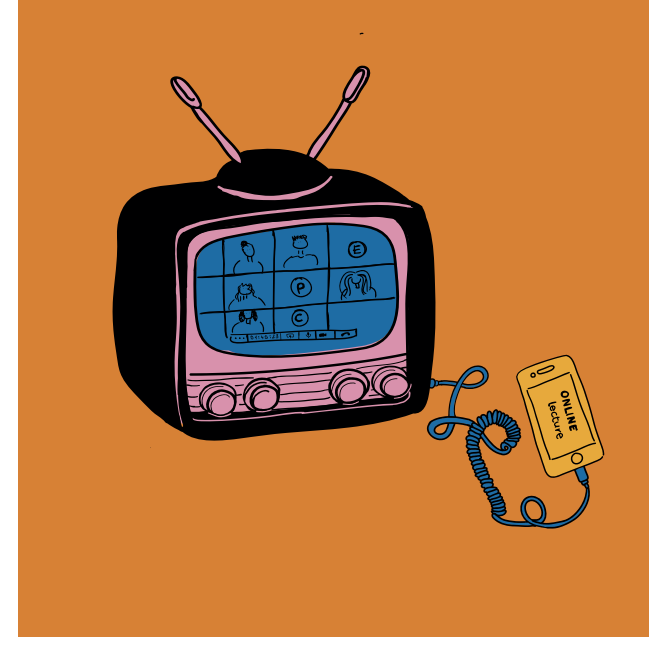

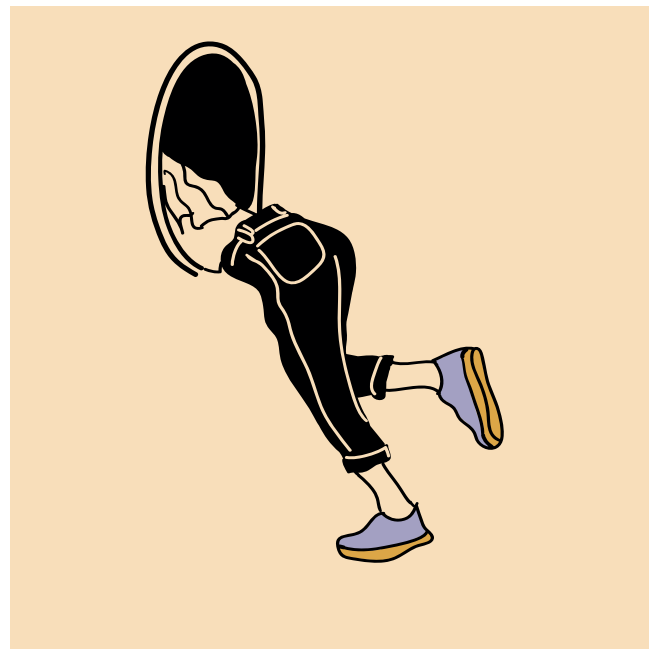

I used the diaries of the students and let me first through their feelings and thoughts. I quickly realized that there are parallels and everyone is individual with their thoughts and feelings.

While illustrating my heart was heavy. Because I wanted to illustrate the most intimate thoughts and feelings of the students without a facade in front of it. I wanted to depict the tears, the frustration, the anger, the insecurity.

I hope that the illustrations as a starting point to lead to conversations with each other. Enjoy browsing through the pages.

„During quarantine we all had
and are still having mixed feelings. Staying at home not only means boredom for me it is stressful and I feel tired of... tired of another lockdown...
tired of all the thoughts in my head.“
